DR. WM. HALL'S

Balsam for the Lungs

THE GREAT AMERICAN CONSUMPTIVE REMEDY

Consumption is NOT an incurable disease. Physicians assure us this fact. It is only necessary to have the Right Remedy, and the terrible malady can be conquered.

Hall's Balsam is this Remedy.

It leaves up the night sweat, relieves the oppressive tightness across the lungs, and lessens the lacerated and excreted surfaces which the venous of the disease produces.

WHILE LIFE LASTS THERE IS HOPE.

It may not be too late to effect a cure even after the doctors have given you up.

Hall's Balsam is sold everywhere, and may be had at wholesale of the Proprietors.

John F. Henry, Curran & Co., their Great Medicinal Warehouse, 109 Commercial Place, New York. Price $1 per bottle.

Hall's Balsam is also a sure remedy for Coughs, Colds, Phthisis, Bronchitis, Asthma, Spitting of Blood, Croup, Whooping Cough, and all other diseases of the respiratory organs.

Also Proprietors of Scovill's Blood and Liver Syrup, Carbolic Salve, Eddy's French Oxygenated Bitters, Mott's Liver Pills, &c.

A NOVEL SWINDLE

[New York Times, 1854.]

Within the past few days Superintendent Metcalf has received complaints from the West, chiefly from the proprietors of various hotels, stating that they had received circulars purporting to come from E. Collinwater, of No. 757 Broadway, setting forth that a certain person had died at the "Arenado hotel," 11th & 12th Streets, and that the chain and watch of the deceased were in possession of the writer of the letter. The writer adds that by looking over the effects of the deceased the writer found a paper bearing the name and address of the party to whom the circular was sent, and presuming the latter to be a connection of the deceased, he agrees to send the effects of the deceased on the receipt of $15. The whole thing is a well-conceived swindle, and many verdant people in the west have been victimized by this transparent fraud.

DUBLIN IRISHMAN, March 21.

Whatever course the representatives of national Ireland may deem it judicious to adopt for the furtherance of their political programme, one sacred duty lies plainly before them. For the crime of which Tell and Kosciusko and Washington were guilty, Irishmen are now paying in the heavy solicitude of English prisons, or forced to communion with the miscreants in whose breath is pollution. Those to whom Ireland has given the commission of speaking with her voice should not allow one day to elapse before they make a combined effort to procure the release of those men from the frightful torture which they are enduring.

The moment is opportune, if there be any force in rightfulness, success ought to be assured. The home rule makers have pledged themselves to the cause of humanity. They are a majority of the representatives of Ireland. Let them lift up their voices and declare that Ireland claims the liberation of the prisoners through the mouth of her elected deputies. No shadow of a valid reason can be urged for rejecting the request.

The organs of English opinion have repeatedly declared that anything which Ireland asks, and which is consistent with the safety of the empire, will be granted. Let Ireland now make her claim, and who shall say that the release of a few obscure Irishmen can imperil realms which counts two hundred and thirty millions of subjects?

Ireland has before prayed that those men might be freed. Thousands upon thousands assembled in peaceful, orderly meetings to make the demand. Only by vicious hypocrites could the fact be denied that it was the nation that uttered the petition. But there was room for cavil. It might be said that the gathered multitudes were not composed of those to whom the constitution has entrusted the franchises. Major, and corporals, and privates, and pretlates have joined in the demand, but there were others who remained silent. It was uncertain—so pretended to reason the greater—that the people of Ireland were in favor of annexation.

No such semblance of argument can now be adduced. The majority of a nation is the nation. That majority has announced its distinctness, with all the guarantees afforded by the latest election. The representatives to whom the mission of carrying the message has been confided should speak at once, openly and without afterthought. That is their first duty.

Wm. Ehlers wishes to inform the public that he has just received a large stock of imported French calf and Morocco Leather from Adolph Nickel, of Cincinnati, direct importers, and he can therefore warrant all his work to be of not only the best manufacture, but of the very best material. Any one who desires fine Boots, Shoes or Gaiters will find it to their interest to call on Mr. Ehlers at his shop, 20th street, and examine his stock and styles before ordering elsewhere.
